STORM ON BORDER

San Jarrell Writes of Sand Blow Among Soldiers.

"It's Coming" and Troopers Make Dash for Their Tents.

AIR IS YELLOW WITH DIRT

It Fills Everything From Eyes to Haversacks.

Like Snakes and Centipedes, It's a Part of Guard Life.

BY SAN JARRELL

Laredo, Tex., Aug. 3.—One hears so much about the storms of the Sahara desert, of the wild African tempests without a drop of rain, when the wind blows up the soil to the destruction of caravans and oases homes. It is a pleasure to sit in an easy chair and read Gilbert Parker's stories of Africa and sup home made lemonade as a chaser. Many of the men now on the Mexican border with the national guards of the United States had heard of these sand gales in years past but gave them no more than a thought. On August 2, however, the sand storms were frequent and unpleasant to say the least. The natives, Mexicans and gringos alike, are acclimated to the sand and do not mind them very much, but to the northerners, profanity is excusable when the great yellow clouds appear on the horizon and leave behind them a trail of sand and dirt and dust.

It would take Sir Gilbert's descriptive pen to put in proper wording a story of a Rio Grande sand storm. Even the creator of Donovan Pasha and Pretty Pierre would fall short of the eloquence used by the soldiers during such turmoil. Gyp the Blood would be able to express their terms in faultless language. Even the staid New Hampshire boys at Laredo give vent to their feelings by saying "stewed prunes," "fudge," and other swear words shockingly unprintable.

"It's coming," the writer of this article was peacefully sleeping in his cot in the Third Missouri Infantry camp. During his midday siesta he was enjoying visions of ice cream and cake, Bill Rappe at first, Phil Hillard's aeroplane, Owen Swayze's whiskers and "speas" and the lake at Central park frozen over. He was awakened by a great commotion outside.

"It's coming," shouted Private Harvey Johnston, otherwise known as the "clay" of the regiment, as the clouds ducked into his tent and went under the covers.

Robert Stone's plump nephew, Fred L. Davis, was washing his socks with the storm broom. He made it from the washtub to his tent in less than a distance of a second and it was a distance of 100 yards. Robert Don Carlos, the "King of the Gandy Dancers," who claims to be a direct descendant of Don Quixote, was chopping wood at the time.

"Oh pickled pig knuckles," quoth

25 YEARS AGO IN TOPEKA

From the columns of THE TOPEKA STATE JOURNAL

August 3, 1901.

George A. Weymouth and family left for an eastern trip today; they expect to make short stops at Detroit, Chicago and Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Davis leave today for a week's visit to friends in Chicago.

Geo. R. Peck and his son Charley, left today for a trip to Europe.

United States Pension Agent Bernard Kelley left today for Muskogee on business.

Dr. and Mrs. S. G. Stewart leave today for Detroit to attend the G. A. R. encampment.

O. C. Hill was in town today looking after the interests of his book "Hill's Fifth Reader" which is published by Crane & Company.

The Topeka ministers committee of thirteen which has charge of the prosecution of illegal liquor dealers held a meeting today behind closed doors.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—Congressman-elect Jerry Simpson is here resting after his campaigning tour in the south preparatory to his return to the United States.

Not that he is not especially enamored of Mr. Foraker, but he feels sure that the Alliance will retire him.

"Why, his financial policy, he does not recognize that conditions have changed, and what he is doing is to put a man who is not adapted to present needs."

he, as he mopped his brow with a silk handkerchief, "dare the luck."

straightway he was given an hour's extra drill for profanity.

Air Was Yellow.

From all parts of the great Missouri camp, where four infantry regiments, signal corps, hospital corps, ambulance company, three batteries and a cavalry troop are encamped, the men staked down sables in a hurry and waited for the storm.

They had long to wait. In a very few seconds the air was yellow with flying sand. It filled ears, eyes, noses, teeth, clothes, blankets, suitcases, haversacks, canteens, rifles, canteens, wagons, hats, shoes, socks, kitchen, ice boxes, and everything else.

SERVED TWELVE YEARS

Harvey Penney, Hays Postmaster, Succeeded by Ellis County Editor.

Hays, Kan., Aug. 3.—After a service of twelve and a half years, Harvey Penney, the western Kansas politician, steps down from the Hays postoffice and into the office of the county editor.

Not a drop of rain in Ellis county for several weeks, farmers cut, stacked and are now threshing their wheat without a wetting and getting the best, plumpest grain, with a good yield, and over a dollar a bushel as the result.

The new $125,000 State Normal building is building rapidly, and already the men are putting in the third floor and men and women are ready to have the building ready to turn over by January 1 next, six months ahead of schedule.
